An Admiralty Libel Suit-The Epizooty Legally Defined.

THE WIDOW OF COLONEL FISK IN COURT.

Michael Norton Indorses a Note for Wm. J. Sharkey and What Came of It.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT.

The Epizooty Legally Defined-An Admiralty Libel Suit-Decision by Judge Blatchford.

Pilsbury Coombs vs. Michael Nolan and Michael McGrath.—Judge Blatchford rendered a decision in this case as follows:—In October, 1872, the schooner Yaukee Blade, of which the libellant was master, brought a load of granite blocks to New York una bill of lading therefor which contained no provision in respect to their discharge except that they were to be delivered to the respondents and to be discharged with the assistance of the crew of the vessel. The libel claims $300 damages for the letention of the vessel by the respondents on the llegation that they took fourteen days to discharge her, whereas they ought to have discharged her in two days, and that the delay was caused by the negligence of the respondents after the arrival of the vessel and after they received notice of her readiness, to discharge. She arrived on the 19th of October and reported to the respondents. She did not obtain a berth at the proper wharf for unloading, so that her unloading could not have been commenced until the 25th. She actually began discharging on the 31st and finished discharging on November 2. Due diligence was used after she began discharging, and the evidence the only delay for which the respondents could, in any event, be neld hable would be for the six days from October 25 to October 31. As to this delay the defence set up in the answer is that it was not possible to procure the necessary horses for the discharge of the cargo unfil the 31st of October; that horses were indispensable for the purpose, and that, owing to an epidemic or contatious disease which then prevaled samong horses, it was not possible to procure them at any price. The evidence snows the prevalence of such an epidemic among horses; that the respondents, after the vessel obtained her berth for unloading, used all reasonable disigence to obtain horses; that horses were indispensable, not only to hoist the stone on to the dock, but to cart it away, because the owner of the wharf vould not allow the stone to lie on the wharf; that the respondents finally obtained and used three horses for the work—one to hoist the stone from the vessel and two to cart it away—and that they paid for the use of the three $20 per day, when the ordinary price would have been for the three $25 per day. On these facts the question of law arises as to whether the respondents are hable for the delay caused by their mabrilty, because of the epidemic, to procure the necessary horses. There can be no doubt, I think, that the only obligation resting on the respondents under the contract in question was to take the stone in the usual and customary way, with reasonable dispence. There was no contract binding the respondents to discharge the cargo in a specified number of days. According to all the authorities a delay caused by the act of God or other vis major, while it will not relieve a register from paying damages where he enters into a positive undertaking to discharge a cargo in a fiven number of days. Will not be visited upon hi could not have been commenced until the 25th. She actually began discharging on the 31st and Suits of the Widow of James Fisk, Jr. Against Fire Insurance Companies. Before Judge Spier.

Mrs. Lucy D. Fisk, widow of James Fisk, Jr., has brought two suits - one against the Liverpool, London and Globe Insurance Company and the other against the New Or-leans Mutual Insurance Association—to recover $20,000 and $15,000, respectively, for loss on fixtures and property formerly in the Fifth Avenue Theatre, which was destroyed by fire on the 1st of January, 1873. It appears that the land and theatre building belonged to Amos R. Eno, and were under lease to the late James Fisk, Jr., with a provision in the lease that the lease was to determine in case of fire. All fixtures, including stage machinery, scenery, seats, gas fixtures, t.c., were to belong to the owner of the building on the termination of the lease. These articles had been supplied by Fisk, and it was claimed by the defence that his interest therein was merely of a leasehold nature, and that, therefore, the full value of the articles destroyed could not be recovered as sued for, but only the value of Fisk's leasehold interest therein. The first case is on triat, having been begun on Friday. The second suit is to await the determination of the first.

COMMON PLEAS-SPECIAL TERM. A Note of William J. Sharkey Indorsed by Mike Norton.

Before Judge J. F. Daly. The Wall street bankers, Glendenning, Davis & Amory held a note for $2,000 of William J. Sharkey, bearing the endorsement of Michael Norton and Thomas Canary. This was in 1871, before Sharkey filled the conspicuous niche in history he now does, and when the feathered biped which once on a time disturbed the seremity of the imperial lottler altitude than at present. The note fell due on the 1st of February, 1871, but was not presented till three days later. The indorsers claimed to be released, inasmuch as the note was not presented and demand of payment made at maturity. As the indorsers reinsed to pay, a suit was brought against them and the same tried before Chier Justice Daily, Of course there were the usual "law's delays," and this trial did not take piace till the 20th of national trial did not take piace till the 20th of national the resulted in a verdict for the plainting for the rull amount claimed. Not pleased with this result, an effort is now being made to obtain a new trial on the ground of surprise, and a motion to such effect was made in this Court. The case was argued at great length, Mr. W. M. Gallaher appearing for the plainting and General Tremain for the defendants. Surprise was elaimed through testimony taken in a commission of a Mr. Keen, residing in Ainneapolis, Minn. he testifying that he had an interview with Mr. Canary on the 6th of February, 1871, in relation to a conversation had by a Mr. Anderson, two days previous, with Mr. Norton in regard to the note, in which, as sileged, a promise was made by the latter, notwithstanding the oversight of the plaintiffs to present the note at maturity to pay it—a promise that Mr. Norton now in an affidavit denies having made. Mr. Gallaher insisted that the only real surprise was the verdict. At the close of the argument Judge Day took the papers, reserving his decision. sented till three days later. The indorsers claim

JEPPERSON MARKET POLICE COURT. West Side Burglars.

Before Judge Murray. On Wednesday night last the building on the northwest corner of Eleventh avenue and Thirty-third street was proken into and some $900 worth of brass finishings belonging to the Rana & Waring Drill and Compressor Company carried The robbery was reported to Captain Macaway. The robbery was reported to Captain Mac-donald, of the Twentieth precinct, and after a long search he found two boys named Philip Von Blai-com and Philip Farmer, who assisted in removing the stolen property. These boys said that they were hired by four men to help them take the brass finishings to the junk shop of Patrick Fin-negan. The boys described the men to the Cap-tain, and he is now in quest of them. One of them, named John Crery, was arraigned at Special Ses-sions on a charge of assault and battery. Von Biarcom and Farmer were committed to the House of Detention.

VASQUEZ, THE BANDIT LEADER.

His Statement of Events in His Exciting Career-Driven to Outlawry He Re solved that He Would Live off the

In the Hebald of yesterday appeared details of the capture near Los Angeles, Cal., of the notorious bandit Vasquez, and to-day is given the points elicited in an interview had with him on the 15th in the Los Angeles jail by a local reporter:—

In the Los Angeles jail by a local reporter:—

Vasquez lay upon a cot in one of the front rooms of the jail, and turning his lace toward his questioner, answered every question in a prompt, unhesitating and apparently truthful manner. The following conversation took place:—

"What you shall say to me will be telegraphed to the Associated Press and published in the San Francisco papers and those of the East. You will not say anything that you don't wish published, or that may injure you on your trial."

"I have nothing to conceal, and will make a straightforward statement."

"Commence, then, with your boyhood days, and tell me what you recollect to the first fight or difficulty in which you were engaged."

"I was born in Monterey county, in this State, in 1837. I am now thirty-seven years of age. The first years of my lite were spent in the county or my oirth, in the usual manner of the young of my lite and class. My first difficulty occurred in a baliroom in Monterey, when I was fifeen years of age. I was engaged in a fight, but no blood was shed."

"After the fight what did you do?"

age. I was engaged in a fight, but no blood was shed."

"After the fight what did you do?"

"I went to work. But the officers came to arrest me. I resisted. A fight ensued and i escaped. No one was killed."

"Bave you ever taken a human life?"

"No, sir. I have tied up and robbed many men, but I have never shed blood."

"Atter you escaped from the officers in Monterey county where did you go?"

"I took a lew cattle and went into the hills near Ukiah, Mendocino county. The officers soon learned where I was and again attempted to arrest me; but after auother fight, in which no one was killed, I escaped."

"What time intervened between your fight in the ballroom in Monterey county and this last attempt to arrest you is Mendocino county."

"Not more than seven or eight months."

"Where did you go after leaving Mendocino county?"

"I went to my mother in Monterey county and I

"I went to my mother in Monterey county and I asked her for her blessing, and I told her I was going out into the world to suffer and take my chances."
"What did you mean by 'suffer and take "What did you mean by "suffer and take chances?"
"That I should live off the world and perhaps suffer at its hands."
"Is it true that you were driven to outlawry through injuries indicted by white men?"
"To a certain extent, yes. When I lived in Monterey county I kept a dance-house and sold liquor. The Americans used to come in and best and abuse me and mistreat my woman."
"Is the story true that your wife was debauched by a white man; and were some of your relatives killed by Americans"
"I was never married in my life. I have had women when I wanted them, but I never had a wife."

"Do you think a woman had anything to do with your capture or in placing the officers on your track?"

(Laughing.) "No; I never trusted one with information that could harm me."

"You say you have never killed any one?"

"No; I always avoided bloodshed, and always urged my people not to kill or nurt those they robbed."

robbed."

"In what part of the State have you committed your robberies or the most of them?"

"In Santa Clara, Monterey, Fresno, and Los Angeles counties, I have committed many robberies in those counties, but don't wish to name them or give details. I robbed Firebaugh's Ferry last November, and it was my party who robbed the bank in Fresno and created the terrible commotion there some months ago."

"Were you posted on the movements of Morse and party?"

"Yes; I knew every movement Morse made. I have been around his camp night after night, but have never been near enough to Morse to recognize him, and should not know him it I met him on the road. I know Sheriff Cunningham, of San Joaquin county. He is a brave man; I could have killed him several times. I never had Morse in a sure piace."

"Did you gear have Shoriff Powerd when the sound in the road in the road of the sound in the road of the sound in the road of the road

"Did you ever have Sheriff Rowland where you could have killed him?"
"Yes; several times. He has taken more risks than any of them. The pursuit after the Repetto roboery was very close. Rowland passed within ten yards of me as I lay in the brush after sbandoning my horses in Lajunda Canyon, I had by my side two Henry rides and two revolvers."
"Now give me your version of the Tras Pinos murder!"

"Now give me your version of the Tres Pinos murder?"

"I will tell you the truth, and in order that you may hereafter know that what I say is true, I will give you the names of my party. If these men are captured they will substantiate what I say. At I respectively the same of the party is the men, all told. Adon Lava acted as my licutenant, and when I sent a party he went as chief. I remained some distance away from Tres Pinos, and sent Lava with two men into the place, with instructions to drink and smoke, but to draw no weapons nor do any violence until arrived. Chavis remained with me. We soon followed the advance guard, and when we reached Tres Pinos we found the murders already committed. I scouled the men for disobeying my orders, and said to the lady whose husband was tred that if she did not give me that money I would kill him. She gave me the money. I did not kill him."

"How much money did she give you?"

"Oh, very httle. The whole amount didn't exceed $200. The goods were taken from the store after my arrival."

"Who committed the murders?"

ceed $200. The goods were taken from the store after my arrival."

"Who committed the murders?"

"Lava shot the man in the stable and at the store door. Romaio killed the man inside the house." Here Vasquez gave, under seal of recreey, the names of the four men who were with him, and also stated that two friends of Chavis whom he didn't know were of the party.

"After leaving Tree Pinos where did you go?"

"The two friends of Lava leit us and went away immediately after leaving the scene of the murder. Shortly after two of my party separated from us and remained in the upper counties. Chavis, Lava and myself travelled south without molestation until we reached Rock Creek."

"A criminal intimacy had existed between myself and Lava's wife long before we left the ranch in Monterey county, but Lava never suspected us. At Rock Creek ne caught us fagrante dilectu. Then he turned sgainst me and sought to have me captured. Lava had been with me a long time prior to the Tree Pinos murder."

At first Lovely B. was made the favorite, with Phil O'Neil second choice, Handy Andy third, the rest in the field. The result of the first heat, which was won by Phil O'Neil, showed that Lovely B. was of but little account, but it seemed to make the spectators believe that Charles E. Cooney is the coming horse. The result was that Cooney backed against the field, some hundreds of dollars finding their way into the box on him against the field at the odds of $35 to $25. The second heat, however, resulted in the success of Lovely B, with Corney distanced, and all the money that was on him lost at that moment. A new deal

STUDENTS IN REBELLION. Opposition to Military Drill at Bowdoin

College. BRUNSWICK, Me., May 23, 1874. The students of Bowdom College have for some time past manifested in various ways their opposition to military drill, which is required of them, and yesterday the Sophomore and Freshmen classes and yesterday the Sophomore and Freshmen classes held meetings and agreed not to drill again, all the members of the two classes, excepting two Sophomores, signing a paper to that effect. The two Sophomores who reclused to sign the paper were the only students present on the patade ground at the usual nour for drill this morning. The Juniors also neld a meeting and took similar action, after which there was a joint meeting of the three classes, and an agreement was signed that the suspension or expulsion of one of their number would be considered by them as the suspension or expulsion of all. The faculty have the inatter under consideration, and it is said they will insist upon the students receding from their position or expulsion will follow.
